MME Webinar Series

This is a five-webinar series, each lasting one hour. The topics covered will meet the Singapore Medical Council's requirements for the mandatory medical ethics (MME) continuing medical education: (1) Professionalism; (2) Informed Consent; (3) Ethics Analysis; (4) Medical Records; and (5) Privacy and Confidentiality. Each session will include a short didactic lecture covering the salient content knowledge required for the topic. Faculty will then illustrate the relevant ethical principles using case examples to provide guidance on practical application. Each session will conclude with a question and answer segment for participants to clarify doubts and raise specific cases that have troubled them.

As an example of the didactic content, the Informed Consent webinar will cover the components of informed consent: (1) Decision-making capacity; (2) Voluntariness; (3) Disclosure of Material Advice; and (4) Authorisation to proceed. Relevant legal principles from the Hii Chii Kok judgement and Section 37 of the Civil Law Act will also be addressed. Special situations such as consent in persons under the age of majority, implied consent and presumed consent will be covered as well.
